CHOICE for Youth and Sexuality
Content

• What is meaningful youth participation?
• Why meaningful youth participation?
• The Flower of Participation
• How can youth participate?
• Conclusions
Youth?

United Nations:
Young people between 15-24

CHOICE:
Young people under 30

Ask yourself:

Who do you mean with ‘youth’?
Meaningful Youth Participation (MYP)?

• Participation of young people in all stages and levels of policies, programmes and decision-making processes that influence their lives

• Young people participate on equal terms through access to accurate information and training

• One young person does not represent all young people, so MYP should include young people from diverse backgrounds
Meaningful Youth Participation (MYP)? - 2

• There is no one-size-fits-all approach to MYP
• It must fit the organization, the program objectives and the needs of young people
• Each context and each youth group requires different strategies
• Whether participation is meaningful depends on young people’s perspective
THE FLOWER OF PARTICIPATION

BASED ON THE THEORY OF THE LADDER OF PARTICIPATION BY ROGER HART.

DEVELOPED BY CHOICE FOR YOUTH & SEXUALITY AND YOUACT.
Why Meaningful Youth Participation?

General:
- Young people’s right
- Empower youth
- Better targeted and more effective services and projects
- Building the overall capacity of the organization

Girls not Brides:
- Youth participation as an effective strategy for ending CM
- Demographics: Achieving results at scale
- Involving young people in advocacy enhances credibility
How can youth participate?

- Structural positions
- Programmatic positions
- Advocacy
Conclusions

- MYP has a wide range of potential benefits
- What can be considered as MYP depends on the situation and on young people’s perspective
- Youth can participate in many different ways